

LISTEN. LEARN. CONNECT.

Have you noticed we don't know how to have a solid conversation? Seems like we've adopted an Us vs. Them mentality. As humans, we should embrace our diversity – yet look at the division. It's very bothersome. Don't you think?

How do we truly engage in a peaceful pursuit of constructive conversation where we actually listen, learn and connect to one another and bridge any division between us?

Please join us at a Learning to Talk Again Workshop.

Let's find peace and commonality in our ever-changing conversations.

This experiential learning workshop will focus on the difficulties we face in simple conversations. We'll have teach-ins and group exercises that will cover simple principles and practices that make constructive conversations possible again.
